

SIX & THRIVING · PREMIUM PLANNER

The Nap Drop Planner

*Navigate every nap transition with confidence.
4→3 · 3→2 · 2→1 Week-by-week, fully logged.*

4 → 3 Naps

6–8 weeks

Tap to start ›

3 → 2 Naps

6–8 months

Tap to start ›

2 → 1 Nap

12–18 months

Tap to start ›

How to Use

Baby Profile

Troubleshooting

Quick Ref

Nap transitions derail progress. This keeps you on track.

Contents

NAVIGATION

Jump directly to any section. All links are active.

How to Use This Planner

Baby Profile

— TRANSITION 1: 4 → 3 Naps —

Signs It's Time

New Schedule Guide

Week-by-Week Planner (Weeks 1–4)

— TRANSITION 2: 3 → 2 Naps —

Signs It's Time

New Schedule Guide

Week-by-Week Planner (Weeks 1–6)

— TRANSITION 3: 2 → 1 Nap —

Signs It's Time

New Schedule Guide

Week-by-Week Planner (Weeks 1–6)

Troubleshooting Guide

Quick Reference & Resources

■ Home

Next ■

How to Use This Planner

GETTING STARTED

Read this once. It'll save you confusion at 2 a.m.

01 Start at the right transition

Go to the transition that matches your baby's current age and situation. Don't read ahead — each section assumes you're actively in that transition.

02 Work week by week

Each transition has a week-by-week planner. Fill in each week's schedule, log daily nap times, and mark signs of progress before moving to the next week.

03 Use the Signs It's Time page first

Before starting a transition, review the signs checklist. If fewer than 3 signs are checked, wait. Rushing a transition adds weeks, not saves them.

04 Log every day — even bad ones

The daily log is your data. Patterns only show up after 5–7 days. One bad day means nothing; a pattern of bad days means something.

05 Troubleshoot before backtracking

If things feel off in week 2 or 3, go to the Troubleshooting Guide before dropping back to the old schedule. Most issues are fixable without reverting.

06 Checkboxes are decisions, not decorations

Every checklist item in this planner represents something that has worked across hundreds of babies. When things aren't working, re-check the basics.

Baby Profile

YOUR BABY

Fill this in once. Reference it throughout.

Baby's Name & Nickname

Full name

Nickname

DOB

Current Sleep Snapshot (fill in before starting)

Age right now

Current # of naps

Avg night sleep (hrs)

Current bedtime

Sleep Personality (circle one)

☐ Snacker

☐ Overthinker

☐ Sensitive Soul

☐ Night Owl

☐ Catnapper

☐ Party Animal

Which transitions apply to this baby? (check all)

☐ 4 → 3 Naps (6–8 weeks)

☐ 3 → 2 Naps (6–8 months)

☐ 2 → 1 Nap (12–18 months)

Notes / anything important about this baby's sleep so far:

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

4 → 3 Naps · Signs It's Time

TRANSITION 1

Age range: 6–8 Weeks · The first major schedule shift. Rhythm begins here.

Overall Readiness Assessment:

Ready to transition

Almost ready — watch 1 more week

Not ready yet — hold the schedule

Check the signs you are seeing consistently (4+ days/week):

Takes 20+ minutes to fall asleep for the 4th nap

Fights or skips the last nap of the day entirely

Awake window feels too short — baby seems alert, not tired

Night sleep is disrupted by over-napping in the day

Bedtime push needed — currently too late or too chaotic

3–4 checked = ready. 1–2 checked = watch another week. 0 checked = not yet.

Observation Notes (what are you seeing day-to-day?):

Date assessed

Baby's current age

Decision (transition now / wait / not yet)

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

4 → 3 Naps · New Schedule Guide

TRANSITION 1

This is your target. It doesn't have to happen perfectly on day 1.

Target Schedule

Time Anchor		Target Time (edit to your baby's rhythm)
Wake	6:30–7:00 a.m.
Nap 1	~8:00–9:00 a.m. (90 min awake window)
Nap 2	~11:00 a.m.–12:30 p.m.
Nap 3 (bridge)	~2:30–3:30 p.m.
Bedtime	7:00–7:30 p.m.

■ KEY NOTE

The 3rd nap is a bridge nap — keep it short (30–45 min). Its job is to get baby to bedtime without overtiredness, not to be a full sleep.

My Adjusted Plan (personalise this schedule for our home):

Planned transition start date

Baby's age at start

Support person / partner aware?

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

4 → 3 Naps · Week 1 — Drop & Observe

WEEK 1 OF 4

Pull the 4th nap. Watch for signals. Don't rescue with a car nap.

This Week's Schedule Targets (copy from schedule page or adjust here):

Wake time

Nap 1 start

Nap 2 start

Bedtime target

Daily Nap Log

Day	Nap 1 Start	Nap 1 End	Nap 2 Start	Nap 2 End	Bedtime	Night Wakes
Mon
Tue
Wed
Thu
Fri
Sat
Sun

Week 1 Focus Checklist (mark each day you nailed it):

- ☐ Nap 1 started within 15 min of target
- ☐ Nap 2 started within 15 min of target
- ☐ No rescue nap added (no car nap / contact nap bail-out)
- ☐ Bedtime hit the target window

"Transitions are messy by design. Messy means it's working."

— Six & Thriving

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

4 → 3 Naps · Week 1 Reflection

WEEK 1 REVIEW

Fill this out at the end of the week — before starting the next.

Week at a Glance

Best nap day

Hardest day

Avg nap 1 length

Avg nap 2 length

What went well?

Even one small win counts — write it down.

What was the hardest part?

Name it specifically. Vague problems stay stuck.

Patterns in the nap log?

Repeated short naps? Consistent fighting? Specific days?

One adjustment for next week:

One thing only. Small + specific.

Transition Progress

☒ Settling well — on track

☐ Still adjusting — hold this week's schedule

☐ Struggling — see troubleshooting guide

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

4 → 3 Naps · Week 2 — Lock in Timing

WEEK 2 OF 4

Set firm nap start times. Push back if baby woke early.

This Week's Schedule Targets (copy from schedule page or adjust here):

Wake time

Nap 1 start

Nap 2 start

Bedtime target

Daily Nap Log

Day	Nap 1 Start	Nap 1 End	Nap 2 Start	Nap 2 End	Bedtime	Night Wakes
Mon
Tue
Wed
Thu
Fri
Sat
Sun

Week 2 Focus Checklist (mark each day you nailed it):

- ☐ Nap 1 started within 15 min of target
- ☐ Nap 2 started within 15 min of target
- ☐ No rescue nap added (no car nap / contact nap bail-out)
- ☐ Bedtime hit the target window

"One bad nap day does not undo a week of progress."

— Six & Thriving

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

4 → 3 Naps · Week 2 Reflection

WEEK 2 REVIEW

Fill this out at the end of the week — before starting the next.

Week at a Glance

Best nap day

Hardest day

Avg nap 1 length

Avg nap 2 length

What went well?

Even one small win counts — write it down.

What was the hardest part?

Name it specifically. Vague problems stay stuck.

Patterns in the nap log?

Repeated short naps? Consistent fighting? Specific days?

One adjustment for next week:

One thing only. Small + specific.

Transition Progress

☒ Settling well — on track

☐ Still adjusting — hold this week's schedule

☐ Struggling — see troubleshooting guide

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

4 → 3 Naps · Week 3 — Bedtime Calibration

WEEK 3 OF 4

Adjust bedtime 10–15 min earlier if needed.

This Week's Schedule Targets (copy from schedule page or adjust here):

Wake time

Nap 1 start

Nap 2 start

Bedtime target

Daily Nap Log

Day	Nap 1 Start	Nap 1 End	Nap 2 Start	Nap 2 End	Bedtime	Night Wakes
Mon
Tue
Wed
Thu
Fri
Sat
Sun

Week 3 Focus Checklist (mark each day you nailed it):

- ☐ Nap 1 started within 15 min of target
- ☐ Nap 2 started within 15 min of target
- ☐ No rescue nap added (no car nap / contact nap bail-out)
- ☐ Bedtime hit the target window

"Your baby's body is learning a new rhythm. Give it time."

— Six & Thriving

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

4 → 3 Naps • Week 3 Reflection

WEEK 3 REVIEW

Fill this out at the end of the week — before starting the next.

Week at a Glance

Best nap day

Hardest day

Avg nap 1 length

Avg nap 2 length

What went well?

Even one small win counts — write it down.

What was the hardest part?

Name it specifically. Vague problems stay stuck.

Patterns in the nap log?

Repeated short naps? Consistent fighting? Specific days?

One adjustment for next week:

One thing only. Small + specific.

Transition Progress

☒ Settling well — on track

☐ Still adjusting — hold this week's schedule

☐ Struggling — see troubleshooting guide

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

4 → 3 Naps · Week 4 — The New Normal

WEEK 4 OF 4

Routine is taking hold. Log patterns, note wins.

This Week's Schedule Targets (copy from schedule page or adjust here):

Wake time

Nap 1 start

Nap 2 start

Bedtime target

Daily Nap Log

Day	Nap 1 Start	Nap 1 End	Nap 2 Start	Nap 2 End	Bedtime	Night Wakes
Mon
Tue
Wed
Thu
Fri
Sat
Sun

Week 4 Focus Checklist (mark each day you nailed it):

- ☐ Nap 1 started within 15 min of target
- ☐ Nap 2 started within 15 min of target
- ☐ No rescue nap added (no car nap / contact nap bail-out)
- ☐ Bedtime hit the target window

"The transition takes as long as it takes. Consistent > Perfect."

— Six & Thriving

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

4 → 3 Naps · Week 4 Reflection

WEEK 4 REVIEW

Fill this out at the end of the week — before starting the next.

Week at a Glance

Best nap day

Hardest day

Avg nap 1 length

Avg nap 2 length

What went well?

Even one small win counts — write it down.

What was the hardest part?

Name it specifically. Vague problems stay stuck.

Patterns in the nap log?

Repeated short naps? Consistent fighting? Specific days?

One adjustment for next week:

One thing only. Small + specific.

Transition Progress

☒ Settling well — on track

☐ Still adjusting — hold this week's schedule

☐ Struggling — see troubleshooting guide

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

3 → 2 Naps · Signs It's Time

TRANSITION 2

Age range: 6–8 Months · The biggest daytime shift. Give it a full month.

Overall Readiness Assessment:

Ready to transition

Almost ready — watch 1 more week

Not ready yet — hold the 3

Check the signs you are seeing consistently (4+ days/week):

Consistently fights the 3rd nap — takes 30+ min to settle

3rd nap pushes bedtime past 8:30 p.m.

Night wakings increase despite good naps

First two naps stretch longer — baby consolidating naturally

Two full naps leave baby happy and unbothered

3–4 checked = ready. 1–2 checked = watch another week. 0 checked = not yet.

Observation Notes (what are you seeing day-to-day?):

Date assessed

Baby's current age

Decision (transition now / wait / not yet)

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

3 → 2 Naps • New Schedule Guide

TRANSITION 2

This is your target. It doesn't have to happen perfectly on day 1.

Target Schedule

Time Anchor		Target Time (edit to your baby's rhythm)
Wake	6:30–7:00 a.m.
Nap 1	~9:00–10:30 a.m. (2–2.5 hr awake window)
Nap 2	~1:00–3:00 p.m. (2.5 hr awake window)
Bedtime	6:30–7:30 p.m.

■ KEY NOTE

Early bedtime is not a mistake during 3→2. A 6:30 p.m. bedtime is protective, not too early. It prevents overtiredness from tanking the whole transition.

My Adjusted Plan (personalise this schedule for our home):

Planned transition start date

Baby's age at start

Support person / partner aware?

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

3 → 2 Naps · Week 1 — Pull the 3rd

WEEK 1 OF 6

Drop the 3rd nap fully. Early bedtime is your safety net.

This Week's Schedule Targets (copy from schedule page or adjust here):

Wake time

Nap 1 start

Nap 2 start

Bedtime target

Daily Nap Log

Day	Nap 1 Start	Nap 1 End	Nap 2 Start	Nap 2 End	Bedtime	Night Wakes
Mon
Tue
Wed
Thu
Fri
Sat
Sun

Week 1 Focus Checklist (mark each day you nailed it):

- ☐ Nap 1 started within 15 min of target
- ☐ Nap 2 started within 15 min of target
- ☐ No rescue nap added (no car nap / contact nap bail-out)
- ☐ Bedtime hit the target window

"Transitions are messy by design. Messy means it's working."

— Six & Thriving

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

3 → 2 Naps · Week 1 Reflection

WEEK 1 REVIEW

Fill this out at the end of the week — before starting the next.

Week at a Glance

Best nap day

Hardest day

Avg nap 1 length

Avg nap 2 length

What went well?

Even one small win counts — write it down.

What was the hardest part?

Name it specifically. Vague problems stay stuck.

Patterns in the nap log?

Repeated short naps? Consistent fighting? Specific days?

One adjustment for next week:

One thing only. Small + specific.

Transition Progress

☒ Settling well — on track

☐ Still adjusting — hold this week's schedule

☐ Struggling — see troubleshooting guide

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

3 → 2 Naps · Week 2 — Ride the Chaos

WEEK 2 OF 6

Expect some tough afternoons. This is normal — don't add back.

This Week's Schedule Targets (copy from schedule page or adjust here):

Wake time

Nap 1 start

Nap 2 start

Bedtime target

Daily Nap Log

Day	Nap 1 Start	Nap 1 End	Nap 2 Start	Nap 2 End	Bedtime	Night Wakes
Mon
Tue
Wed
Thu
Fri
Sat
Sun

Week 2 Focus Checklist (mark each day you nailed it):

- ☐ Nap 1 started within 15 min of target
- ☐ Nap 2 started within 15 min of target
- ☐ No rescue nap added (no car nap / contact nap bail-out)
- ☐ Bedtime hit the target window

"One bad nap day does not undo a week of progress."

— Six & Thriving

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

3 → 2 Naps · Week 2 Reflection

WEEK 2 REVIEW

Fill this out at the end of the week — before starting the next.

Week at a Glance

Best nap day

Hardest day

Avg nap 1 length

Avg nap 2 length

What went well?

Even one small win counts — write it down.

What was the hardest part?

Name it specifically. Vague problems stay stuck.

Patterns in the nap log?

Repeated short naps? Consistent fighting? Specific days?

One adjustment for next week:

One thing only. Small + specific.

Transition Progress

☒ Settling well — on track

☐ Still adjusting — hold this week's schedule

☐ Struggling — see troubleshooting guide

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

3 → 2 Naps · Week 3 — Extend Window 1

WEEK 3 OF 6

Push Nap 1 start 15 min later to lengthen awake windows.

This Week's Schedule Targets (copy from schedule page or adjust here):

Wake time

Nap 1 start

Nap 2 start

Bedtime target

Daily Nap Log

Day	Nap 1 Start	Nap 1 End	Nap 2 Start	Nap 2 End	Bedtime	Night Wakes
Mon
Tue
Wed
Thu
Fri
Sat
Sun

Week 3 Focus Checklist (mark each day you nailed it):

- ☐ Nap 1 started within 15 min of target
- ☐ Nap 2 started within 15 min of target
- ☐ No rescue nap added (no car nap / contact nap bail-out)
- ☐ Bedtime hit the target window

"Your baby's body is learning a new rhythm. Give it time."

— Six & Thriving

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

3 → 2 Naps · Week 3 Reflection

WEEK 3 REVIEW

Fill this out at the end of the week — before starting the next.

Week at a Glance

Best nap day

Hardest day

Avg nap 1 length

Avg nap 2 length

What went well?

Even one small win counts — write it down.

What was the hardest part?

Name it specifically. Vague problems stay stuck.

Patterns in the nap log?

Repeated short naps? Consistent fighting? Specific days?

One adjustment for next week:

One thing only. Small + specific.

Transition Progress

☒ Settling well — on track

☐ Still adjusting — hold this week's schedule

☐ Struggling — see troubleshooting guide

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

3 → 2 Naps · Week 4 — Extend Window 2

WEEK 4 OF 6

Push Nap 2 start 15 min later. Watch bedtime stays consistent.

This Week's Schedule Targets (copy from schedule page or adjust here):

Wake time

Nap 1 start

Nap 2 start

Bedtime target

Daily Nap Log

Day	Nap 1 Start	Nap 1 End	Nap 2 Start	Nap 2 End	Bedtime	Night Wakes
Mon
Tue
Wed
Thu
Fri
Sat
Sun

Week 4 Focus Checklist (mark each day you nailed it):

- ☐ Nap 1 started within 15 min of target
- ☐ Nap 2 started within 15 min of target
- ☐ No rescue nap added (no car nap / contact nap bail-out)
- ☐ Bedtime hit the target window

"The transition takes as long as it takes. Consistent > Perfect."

— Six & Thriving

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

3 → 2 Naps · Week 4 Reflection

WEEK 4 REVIEW

Fill this out at the end of the week — before starting the next.

Week at a Glance

Best nap day

Hardest day

Avg nap 1 length

Avg nap 2 length

What went well?

Even one small win counts — write it down.

What was the hardest part?

Name it specifically. Vague problems stay stuck.

Patterns in the nap log?

Repeated short naps? Consistent fighting? Specific days?

One adjustment for next week:

One thing only. Small + specific.

Transition Progress

☒ Settling well — on track

☐ Still adjusting — hold this week's schedule

☐ Struggling — see troubleshooting guide

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

3 → 2 Naps · Week 5 — Mid-Point Check

WEEK 5 OF 6

Two full naps settling? Log consistency.

This Week's Schedule Targets (copy from schedule page or adjust here):

Wake time

Nap 1 start

Nap 2 start

Bedtime target

Daily Nap Log

Day	Nap 1 Start	Nap 1 End	Nap 2 Start	Nap 2 End	Bedtime	Night Wakes
Mon
Tue
Wed
Thu
Fri
Sat
Sun

Week 5 Focus Checklist (mark each day you nailed it):

- ☐ Nap 1 started within 15 min of target
- ☐ Nap 2 started within 15 min of target
- ☐ No rescue nap added (no car nap / contact nap bail-out)
- ☐ Bedtime hit the target window

"You pulled the nap. That was the hard part. Hold the line."

— Six & Thriving

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

3 → 2 Naps · Week 5 Reflection

WEEK 5 REVIEW

Fill this out at the end of the week — before starting the next.

Week at a Glance

Best nap day

Hardest day

Avg nap 1 length

Avg nap 2 length

What went well?

Even one small win counts — write it down.

What was the hardest part?

Name it specifically. Vague problems stay stuck.

Patterns in the nap log?

Repeated short naps? Consistent fighting? Specific days?

One adjustment for next week:

One thing only. Small + specific.

Transition Progress

☒ Settling well — on track

☐ Still adjusting — hold this week's schedule

☐ Struggling — see troubleshooting guide

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

3 → 2 Naps · Week 6 — Solidify

WEEK 6 OF 6

Nap times feel predictable. Fine-tune bedtime.

This Week's Schedule Targets (copy from schedule page or adjust here):

Wake time

Nap 1 start

Nap 2 start

Bedtime target

Daily Nap Log

Day	Nap 1 Start	Nap 1 End	Nap 2 Start	Nap 2 End	Bedtime	Night Wakes
Mon
Tue
Wed
Thu
Fri
Sat
Sun

Week 6 Focus Checklist (mark each day you nailed it):

- ☐ Nap 1 started within 15 min of target
- ☐ Nap 2 started within 15 min of target
- ☐ No rescue nap added (no car nap / contact nap bail-out)
- ☐ Bedtime hit the target window

"Some days the new schedule works beautifully. Some don't. Keep going."

— Six & Thriving

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

3 → 2 Naps • Week 6 Reflection

WEEK 6 REVIEW

Fill this out at the end of the week — before starting the next.

Week at a Glance

Best nap day

Hardest day

Avg nap 1 length

Avg nap 2 length

What went well?

Even one small win counts — write it down.

What was the hardest part?

Name it specifically. Vague problems stay stuck.

Patterns in the nap log?

Repeated short naps? Consistent fighting? Specific days?

One adjustment for next week:

One thing only. Small + specific.

Transition Progress

☒ Settling well — on track

☐ Still adjusting — hold this week's schedule

☐ Struggling — see troubleshooting guide

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

2 → 1 Nap • Signs It's Time

TRANSITION 3

Age range: 12–18 Months • The long one. Expect 4–6 weeks of messiness.

Overall Readiness Assessment:

Ready to transition

Almost ready — watch 1 more week

Not ready yet — hold the 2

Check the signs you are seeing consistently (4+ days/week):

Consistently fights the morning nap or second nap

Takes 45+ min to fall asleep for one of the naps

One nap causes the other to be skipped or very short

Night sleep extends — baby banking more overnight hours

Clearly tired at 11 a.m. but fights the afternoon nap

3–4 checked = ready. 1–2 checked = watch another week. 0 checked = not yet.

Observation Notes (what are you seeing day-to-day?):

Date assessed

Baby's current age

Decision (transition now / wait / not yet)

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

2 → 1 Nap • New Schedule Guide

TRANSITION 3

This is your target. It doesn't have to happen perfectly on day 1.

Target Schedule

Time Anchor	Target Time (edit to your baby's rhythm)
Wake	6:30–7:00 a.m.
Nap (midday)	~12:00–12:30 p.m. start (5–6 hr awake window)
Nap duration	1.5–3 hours — let them lead
Quiet rest	If nap is short, offer 20 min quiet rest on floor
Bedtime	6:30–7:30 p.m.

■ KEY NOTE

Do NOT drop the nap on a bad day. The 2→1 transition takes 4–6 weeks. Expect "disaster days" weeks 2 and 3. This is normal. Stay the course.

My Adjusted Plan (personalise this schedule for our home):

Planned transition start date

Baby's age at start

Support person / partner aware?

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

2 → 1 Nap · Week 1 — Trial Week

WEEK 1 OF 6

Drop the morning nap or the second. Pick one, stay consistent.

This Week's Schedule Targets (copy from schedule page or adjust here):

Wake time

Nap 1 start

Nap 2 start

Bedtime target

Daily Nap Log

Day	Nap 1 Start	Nap 1 End	Nap 2 Start	Nap 2 End	Bedtime	Night Wakes
Mon
Tue
Wed
Thu
Fri
Sat
Sun

Week 1 Focus Checklist (mark each day you nailed it):

- ☐ Nap 1 started within 15 min of target
- ☐ Nap 2 started within 15 min of target
- ☐ No rescue nap added (no car nap / contact nap bail-out)
- ☐ Bedtime hit the target window

"Transitions are messy by design. Messy means it's working."

— Six & Thriving

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

2 → 1 Nap • Week 1 Reflection

WEEK 1 REVIEW

Fill this out at the end of the week — before starting the next.

Week at a Glance

Best nap day

Hardest day

Avg nap 1 length

Avg nap 2 length

What went well?

Even one small win counts — write it down.

What was the hardest part?

Name it specifically. Vague problems stay stuck.

Patterns in the nap log?

Repeated short naps? Consistent fighting? Specific days?

One adjustment for next week:

One thing only. Small + specific.

Transition Progress

☒ Settling well — on track

☐ Still adjusting — hold this week's schedule

☐ Struggling — see troubleshooting guide

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

2 → 1 Nap • Week 2 — The Hard Week

WEEK 2 OF 6

Most families hit a wall. Protect bedtime above all else.

This Week's Schedule Targets (copy from schedule page or adjust here):

Wake time

Nap 1 start

Nap 2 start

Bedtime target

Daily Nap Log

Day	Nap 1 Start	Nap 1 End	Nap 2 Start	Nap 2 End	Bedtime	Night Wakes
Mon
Tue
Wed
Thu
Fri
Sat
Sun

Week 2 Focus Checklist (mark each day you nailed it):

- ☐ Nap 1 started within 15 min of target
- ☐ Nap 2 started within 15 min of target
- ☐ No rescue nap added (no car nap / contact nap bail-out)
- ☐ Bedtime hit the target window

"One bad nap day does not undo a week of progress."

— Six & Thriving

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

2 → 1 Nap • Week 2 Reflection

WEEK 2 REVIEW

Fill this out at the end of the week — before starting the next.

Week at a Glance

Best nap day

Hardest day

Avg nap 1 length

Avg nap 2 length

What went well?

Even one small win counts — write it down.

What was the hardest part?

Name it specifically. Vague problems stay stuck.

Patterns in the nap log?

Repeated short naps? Consistent fighting? Specific days?

One adjustment for next week:

One thing only. Small + specific.

Transition Progress

☒ Settling well — on track

☐ Still adjusting — hold this week's schedule

☐ Struggling — see troubleshooting guide

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

2 → 1 Nap • Week 3 — Push the Nap

WEEK 3 OF 6

Move midday nap start 15 min later than last week.

This Week's Schedule Targets (copy from schedule page or adjust here):

Wake time

Nap 1 start

Nap 2 start

Bedtime target

Daily Nap Log

Day	Nap 1 Start	Nap 1 End	Nap 2 Start	Nap 2 End	Bedtime	Night Wakes
Mon
Tue
Wed
Thu
Fri
Sat
Sun

Week 3 Focus Checklist (mark each day you nailed it):

- ☐ Nap 1 started within 15 min of target
- ☐ Nap 2 started within 15 min of target
- ☐ No rescue nap added (no car nap / contact nap bail-out)
- ☐ Bedtime hit the target window

"Your baby's body is learning a new rhythm. Give it time."

— Six & Thriving

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

2 → 1 Nap • Week 3 Reflection

WEEK 3 REVIEW

Fill this out at the end of the week — before starting the next.

Week at a Glance

Best nap day

Hardest day

Avg nap 1 length

Avg nap 2 length

What went well?

Even one small win counts — write it down.

What was the hardest part?

Name it specifically. Vague problems stay stuck.

Patterns in the nap log?

Repeated short naps? Consistent fighting? Specific days?

One adjustment for next week:

One thing only. Small + specific.

Transition Progress

☒ Settling well — on track

☐ Still adjusting — hold this week's schedule

☐ Struggling — see troubleshooting guide

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

2 → 1 Nap · Week 4 — Extend the Nap

WEEK 4 OF 6

Try to extend nap — blackout, white noise, no early rescues.

This Week's Schedule Targets (copy from schedule page or adjust here):

Wake time

Nap 1 start

Nap 2 start

Bedtime target

Daily Nap Log

Day	Nap 1 Start	Nap 1 End	Nap 2 Start	Nap 2 End	Bedtime	Night Wakes
Mon
Tue
Wed
Thu
Fri
Sat
Sun

Week 4 Focus Checklist (mark each day you nailed it):

- ☐ Nap 1 started within 15 min of target
- ☐ Nap 2 started within 15 min of target
- ☐ No rescue nap added (no car nap / contact nap bail-out)
- ☐ Bedtime hit the target window

"The transition takes as long as it takes. Consistent > Perfect."

— Six & Thriving

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

2 → 1 Nap • Week 4 Reflection

WEEK 4 REVIEW

Fill this out at the end of the week — before starting the next.

Week at a Glance

Best nap day

Hardest day

Avg nap 1 length

Avg nap 2 length

What went well?

Even one small win counts — write it down.

What was the hardest part?

Name it specifically. Vague problems stay stuck.

Patterns in the nap log?

Repeated short naps? Consistent fighting? Specific days?

One adjustment for next week:

One thing only. Small + specific.

Transition Progress

☒ Settling well — on track

☐ Still adjusting — hold this week's schedule

☐ Struggling — see troubleshooting guide

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

2 → 1 Nap · Week 5 — Stabilize

WEEK 5 OF 6

Watch the nap settling reliably? Night sleep usually improves.

This Week's Schedule Targets (copy from schedule page or adjust here):

Wake time

Nap 1 start

Nap 2 start

Bedtime target

Daily Nap Log

Day	Nap 1 Start	Nap 1 End	Nap 2 Start	Nap 2 End	Bedtime	Night Wakes
Mon
Tue
Wed
Thu
Fri
Sat
Sun

Week 5 Focus Checklist (mark each day you nailed it):

- ☐ Nap 1 started within 15 min of target
- ☐ Nap 2 started within 15 min of target
- ☐ No rescue nap added (no car nap / contact nap bail-out)
- ☐ Bedtime hit the target window

"You pulled the nap. That was the hard part. Hold the line."

— Six & Thriving

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

2 → 1 Nap • Week 5 Reflection

WEEK 5 REVIEW

Fill this out at the end of the week — before starting the next.

Week at a Glance

Best nap day

Hardest day

Avg nap 1 length

Avg nap 2 length

What went well?

Even one small win counts — write it down.

What was the hardest part?

Name it specifically. Vague problems stay stuck.

Patterns in the nap log?

Repeated short naps? Consistent fighting? Specific days?

One adjustment for next week:

One thing only. Small + specific.

Transition Progress

☒ Settling well — on track

☐ Still adjusting — hold this week's schedule

☐ Struggling — see troubleshooting guide

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

2 → 1 Nap • Week 6 — The New Groove

WEEK 6 OF 6

Routine is yours now. Log the final schedule that works.

This Week's Schedule Targets (copy from schedule page or adjust here):

Wake time

Nap 1 start

Nap 2 start

Bedtime target

Daily Nap Log

Day	Nap 1 Start	Nap 1 End	Nap 2 Start	Nap 2 End	Bedtime	Night Wakes
Mon
Tue
Wed
Thu
Fri
Sat
Sun

Week 6 Focus Checklist (mark each day you nailed it):

- ☐ Nap 1 started within 15 min of target
- ☐ Nap 2 started within 15 min of target
- ☐ No rescue nap added (no car nap / contact nap bail-out)
- ☐ Bedtime hit the target window

"Some days the new schedule works beautifully. Some don't. Keep going."

— Six & Thriving

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

2 → 1 Nap • Week 6 Reflection

WEEK 6 REVIEW

Fill this out at the end of the week — before starting the next.

Week at a Glance

Best nap day

Hardest day

Avg nap 1 length

Avg nap 2 length

What went well?

Even one small win counts — write it down.

What was the hardest part?

Name it specifically. Vague problems stay stuck.

Patterns in the nap log?

Repeated short naps? Consistent fighting? Specific days?

One adjustment for next week:

One thing only. Small + specific.

Transition Progress

☒ Settling well — on track

☐ Still adjusting — hold this week's schedule

☐ Struggling — see troubleshooting guide

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■

Troubleshooting Guide

PROBLEM SOLVER

Something's off? Start here before reverting to the old schedule.

■ Early waking

Usually caused by: too much daytime sleep, first nap too early, or overtiredness. Try capping total nap time and pushing first nap 15 min later.

■ Catnapping

Baby wakes at 30–45 min mark. Practice re-settle: pause, wait, offer a pat — don't immediately feed or remove from crib.

■ Short nap throws off schedule

Use the 'floating nap' rescue: brief 20-min top-up if needed. Don't let it become a habit — 3 days max.

■ Bedtime resistance

Nap is too late, total sleep too high, or stimulation too high pre-bed. Pull bedtime 15–30 min earlier for a week.

■ Overtiredness spiral

Signs: wired but won't sleep, crying hard, won't settle. Push bedtime to 6 p.m. for 2–3 days to reset.

■ Regression during transition

Normal. Transitions rarely land clean. Hold the new schedule even on bad days — reverting resets the clock.

■ Prev■ HomeNext ■

Quick Reference · Nap Readiness by Age

REFERENCE

Use this as a sanity check throughout all three transitions.

Age	# Naps	Awake Window	Notes
6–8 weeks	3	45–75 min	4→3 transition zone
3–4 months	3	75–90 min	Bridge nap still needed
5–6 months	3	90 min	3 firm naps for most
6–8 months	2–3	2–2.5 hrs	3→2 transition zone
8–12 months	2	2.5–3.5 hrs	2 naps solidly
12–15 months	1–2	4–5 hrs	2→1 transition zone
15–24 months	1	5–6 hrs	1 nap, midday
2–3 years	1	6 hrs+	Nap may drop ~3 yrs

My Personal Notes & Reminders:

■ Return to Cover

■ Prev

■ Home

Next ■