1

Start on Night 1

Fill in your baby's actual bedtime, not the target. Honesty in the log = clarity in the pattern.
log = clarity in the pattern.

2

Log wake time & naps

Note morning wake time first. Then log each nap with start time, end time, and quality.
time, and quality.

3

Check the ritual

After the bedtime routine, tick off which steps you completed. Consistency is the whole game.
Consistency is the whole game.

4

Track night wakings

For each waking: time, how long, what you did, and whether it worked. No judgment — just data.

Quick Reference Tips

Watch the Wake Window

Track the time awake before bed — overtired = harder settle.
harder settle.

Same Ritual, Same Order

Consistency cues the brain to expect sleep.

Drowsy But Awake

Put down before fully asleep — they need to learn the last bit.
learn the last bit.

Night Wakings

Wait 2 min before responding. They may re-settle. re-settle.

Your Mood Matters

A calmer parent = calmer baby. Track yours too.

Trust the Data

7 nights reveals a pattern. Don't quit on Night 3.

Week-End Reflection

What the data is telling you — and what to do next

"One week of data tells you more than six months of guessing."

● Pattern I Noticed

What happened most nights? What changed by Night 7?

● What Worked

Which ritual steps, timing, or responses made a difference?

● What to Adjust

One thing I'll tweak going into next week:

● Win of the Week

Even a small improvement counts. What was it?
