

INTERACTIVE PLANNER • FULLY FILLABLE • PREMIUM EDITION

SLEEP, BABY. PLEASE.

Six Sleep Personalities Discovery Kit

Find your baby's type. Crack the sleep code.

Snacker

Party Animal

Overthinker

Catnapper

START THE KIT →

Six & Thriving

Six & Thriving ©2026

Welcome to the Kit

Everything you need to crack your baby's sleep code

"Every baby has a sleep personality. Once you know yours, everything changes."

— Six & Thriving

HOW TO USE THIS KIT

01

Take the Personality Quiz

Answer questions about YOUR baby's actual behaviours — no guessing.

02

Find Your Baby's Type

Jump to your baby's personality page for tailored strategies.

03

Build Your Action Plan

Use the action plan page to customise your first-week approach.

04

Track & Adjust

Use the Sleep Tracker daily. Patterns emerge by day 3–4.

05

Run the Bedtime Builder

Personalise your exact bedtime sequence and stick it on the door.

JUMP TO A PERSONALITY

The Snacker ■

The Overthinker ■

The Sensitive Soul ■

The Night Owl ■

The Catnapper ■

The Party Animal ■

Baby Sleep Personality Quiz

Answer each question based on your baby right now. Circle or check the best answer.

Baby's name / nickname: _____

Age: _____

Date: _____

Q1. How does your baby most commonly fall asleep?

- A. Nursing or bottle-feeding — every time
- B. After a long wind-down; they fight it hard
- C. Varies — very sensitive to routine changes
- D. Rarely tired at the usual bedtime; wants to party

Q2. How long are most of your baby's naps?

- A. Short — 30–45 min, then wide awake
- B. Variable — depends on how many times they fed
- C. Decent but only if the environment is perfect
- D. Long in the day, but then restless at night

Q3. What does a night waking look like for your baby?

- A. Wants to feed — every single cycle
- B. Wakes happy, chatty, ready to play at 2 a.m.
- C. Hard to resettle; small changes upset them
- D. Wakes and stares — curious, won't wind down

Q4. How does your baby respond to the sleep environment?

- A. Any noise wakes them — very light sleeper
- B. Fine until 45 min then up — like clockwork
- C. Only settles when fed or rocked completely
- D. Seems energised at bedtime, not sleepy at all

Q5. Which phrase best describes your baby at 7 p.m.?

- A. "Wide awake — 7 p.m. is my vibe."
- B. "I just woke from my 47-minute nap, refreshed and terrible."
- C. "I need to feed to sleep or this is not happening."
- D. "Everything is interesting. I refuse to miss it."

SCORING YOUR QUIZ

Count your most common letter. Mostly A's in Q1–Q3? You have a Snacker.

Multiple letters? Your baby is likely a blend. Read the two closest types.

My baby's primary type:

Blend type:

Jump to your type:

Snacker

Overthinker

Sensitive

Night Owl

Catnapper

Party Animal

The Snacker

Feeds little and often. The breast or bottle IS the sleep cue.

← Back to Quiz

WHO THEY ARE

The Snacker has learned to associate feeding with sleep. They wake frequently throughout the night — not from hunger, but because nursing or the bottle is their only way back to sleep. Every sleep cycle = a feed.

SIGNS YOUR BABY IS THIS TYPE

- Wakes every 1–2 hours at night, every time
- Always falls asleep on the breast or bottle

WHAT WORKS

- 1 Consolidate feeds — fewer but larger (gradually)
- 2 Feed, then wake slightly, then settle: break the cycle
- 3 Introduce a lovey or pacifier as substitute comfort
- 4 Move the feed earlier in the bedtime routine
- 5 Ensure full feeds during the day (dream feed if needed)

PRO TIP

Start your bedtime feed 15 minutes earlier so your baby doesn't fall asleep on the bottle. A drowsy-but-awake transfer to the crib is your biggest lever.

AVOID

Don't cut feeds cold turkey — gradual consolidation only.

MY NOTES FOR THIS TYPE

Strategies I'm trying:

Consolidate feeds — fewer but larger (gradually)

Feed, then wake slightly, then settle: break the cycle

Introduce a lovey or pacifier as substitute comfort

Move the feed earlier in the bedtime routine

What I noticed:

My biggest challenge:

First thing I'll try tonight:

My confidence level (1 = none, 5 = ready):

1 2 3 4 5

The Overthinker →

The Overthinker

Alert, curious, and convinced the world will stop without them.

← Back to Quiz

WHO THEY ARE

The Overthinker is fascinating and exhausting in equal measure. They fight sleep even when obviously tired — because the world is simply too interesting. Their nervous system runs hot. They need an

SIGNS YOUR BABY IS THIS TYPE

- Fights sleep even with clearly tired cues
- Hyperalert — tracks movement and sound constantly

WHAT WORKS

- 1 Earlier bedtime than you think — overtiredness hits them hard
- 2 NO mobiles, toys, or screens in the last 30 min
- 3 Darkest room you can achieve (blackout + tape over LEDs)
- 4 White noise — steady, consistent, from the first minute of wind-down
- 5 One caregiver, same voice, same sequence every night

PRO TIP

The Overthinker's wind-down should feel almost meditative. Dim lights, low voices, slow movements. Think: 'boring on purpose.'

AVOID

Avoid any interaction during the last 10 min that sparks engagement.

MY NOTES FOR THIS TYPE

Strategies I'm trying:

- Earlier bedtime than you think — overtiredness hits them hard
- NO mobiles, toys, or screens in the last 30 min
- Darkest room you can achieve (blackout + tape over LEDs)
- White noise — steady, consistent, from the first minute of wind-d...

What I noticed:

My biggest challenge:

First thing I'll try tonight:

My confidence level (1 = none, 5 = ready):

1 2 3 4 5

The Sensitive Soul →

The Sensitive Soul

Picks up on everything. Routine is their superpower.

← Back to Quiz

WHO THEY ARE

The Sensitive Soul is emotionally attuned and acutely aware of their environment. A change in your tone, a new smell in the room, a slight variation in routine — they notice all of it. They're prone to more

SIGNS YOUR BABY IS THIS TYPE

- Easily startled and very difficult to resettle
- Sleep disrupted by any change in household routine

WHAT WORKS

- 1 Extraordinary routine consistency — same order, every night, forever
- 2 Calm and regulated caregiver (hard when exhausted, but essential)
- 3 Gentler method: Chair Method or Fading over Extinction
- 4 Prepare for leaps — temporarily increase support, then return to plan
- 5 Lovey introduced early — a comfort anchor they control

PRO TIP

Your own nervous system is contagious to the Sensitive Soul. If you're anxious, they feel it. Take three slow breaths before entering the room.

AVOID

Avoid any abrupt method changes — consistency IS the intervention.

MY NOTES FOR THIS TYPE

Strategies I'm trying:

- Extraordinary routine consistency — same order, every night, fore...
- Calm and regulated caregiver (hard when exhausted, but essential)
- Gentler method: Chair Method or Fading over Extinction
- Prepare for leaps — temporarily increase support, then return to ...

What I noticed:

My biggest challenge:

First thing I'll try tonight:

My confidence level (1 = none, 5 = ready):

12345

The Night Owl →

The Night Owl

Running on a later internal clock. 7 p.m. is not their bedtime.

← Back to Quiz

WHO THEY ARE

The Night Owl is genuinely wired to be awake in the evening. Their circadian rhythm runs late. Putting them down at 7 p.m. results in an hour of fussing because biologically, they're just not ready. You can shift this —

SIGNS YOUR BABY IS THIS TYPE

- Not tired at 7 p.m. — genuinely wide awake
- Easiest to settle between 9 and 11 p.m.

WHAT WORKS

- 1 Shift schedule earlier: 10–15 min every 2–3 days over 2–3 weeks
- 2 Maximise morning light — outside within 30 min of waking
- 3 Cap the last nap earlier to build more sleep pressure by evening
- 4 Bright light off at least 90 min before target bedtime
- 5 Be patient — circadian shifts take 2–3 weeks of consistent effort

PRO TIP

Morning light is your strongest lever. Open the blinds, go outside, use a daylight lamp. This resets the circadian clock faster than anything else.

AVOID Don't force an early bedtime without first shifting the nap schedule.

MY NOTES FOR THIS TYPE

Strategies I'm trying:

- Shift schedule earlier: 10–15 min every 2–3 days over 2–3 weeks
- Maximise morning light — outside within 30 min of waking
- Cap the last nap earlier to build more sleep pressure by evening
- Bright light off at least 90 min before target bedtime

What I noticed:

My biggest challenge:

First thing I'll try tonight:

My confidence level (1 = none, 5 = ready):

12345

The Catnapper →

The Catnapper

One sleep cycle and done. The 45-minute alarm clock.

← Back to Quiz

WHO THEY ARE

The Catnapper surfaces from the first sleep cycle and wakes fully — 45 minutes in, every time. They haven't learned to link sleep cycles. The result is a baby who's under-rested, a parent with no real break,

SIGNS YOUR BABY IS THIS TYPE

- Every nap ends at 35–48 minutes, almost to the minute
- Wakes fully — not drowsy, fully awake and often fussy

WHAT WORKS

- 1 Be in the room at the 38-min mark — attempt re-settling before full waking
- 2 Optimal nap environment: truly dark, white noise running, cool room
- 3 Crib naps only (motion sleep doesn't build the same skill)
- 4 For under-5 months: 3-nap schedule that works with short naps
- 5 Avoid the 4th nap trap — too much sleep fragmentation late in the day

PRO TIP

Set a timer for 38 minutes from when your baby falls asleep. When it goes off, put your hand on their chest before they fully surface. You're trying to push them through the transition.

AVOID

Don't let car or pram be the only nap option — it prevents skill-building.

MY NOTES FOR THIS TYPE

Strategies I'm trying:

Be in the room at the 38-min mark — attempt re-settling before fu...

Optimal nap environment: truly dark, white noise running, cool ro...

Crib naps only (motion sleep doesn't build the same skill)

For under-5 months: 3-nap schedule that works with short naps

What I noticed:

My biggest challenge:

First thing I'll try tonight:

My confidence level (1 = none, 5 = ready):

1

2

3

4

5

The Party Animal →

■ The Party Animal

Wakes at 2 a.m. happy, chatty, and ready to go.

← Back to Quiz

WHO THEY ARE

The Party Animal is possibly the most disconcerting baby to have: they wake in the middle of the night genuinely cheerful. Not crying — chatting. Playing with their feet. Smiling at the ceiling. They're having a

SIGNS YOUR BABY IS THIS TYPE

- Wakes 1–4 a.m. — happy, alert, not distressed
- Plays or babbles in the dark for 30–90 min

WHAT WORKS

- 1 Check bedtime — try pushing it 15–30 min later to rule out early bedtime
- 2 Absolute darkness — any light triggers the circadian 'morning' signal
- 3 Do NOT engage during the wakeful window (no lights, no play, no talking)
- 4 Make 2 a.m. incredibly boring — flat response, no reward
- 5 Ensure the last nap ends early enough to build sleep pressure

PRO TIP

The Party Animal is often triggered by even tiny amounts of light. Electrical tape over every LED. True blackout. This alone resolves many Party Animal wake windows within a week.

AVOID

Never turn a light on, engage with play, or bring them to your bed during this window.

MY NOTES FOR THIS TYPE

Strategies I'm trying:

- Check bedtime — try pushing it 15–30 min later to rule out early ...
- Absolute darkness — any light triggers the circadian 'morning' si...
- Do NOT engage during the wakeful window (no lights, no play, no t...
- Make 2 a.m. incredibly boring — flat response, no reward

What I noticed:

My biggest challenge:

First thing I'll try tonight:

My confidence level (1 = none, 5 = ready):

1 2 3 4 5

My Action Plan →

My 7-Night Action Plan

Complete this before Night 1 begins. Your 2 a.m. brain will thank you.

Baby's name:

Age:

Start date:

Type:

SLEEP METHOD	BEDTIME ROUTINE	MY RESPONSE PLAN
Which method from Chapter 6? Extinction (CIO) Ferber Method Chair Method Fading Method Pick Up / Put Down	Your exact sequence tonight 1. 2. 3. 4. 5. 6. 7.	What I'll do at each waking Waking 1: Waking 2: Waking 3: If distressed: My fallback:

ENVIRONMENT SETUP CHECKLIST

- True blackout (can't see hand)

White noise running all night

Room temp 68–72°F / 20–22°C
- All LEDs covered with tape

Firm flat mattress, fitted sheet only

Sleep sack right tog for temperature

NIGHT-BY-NIGHT LOG

Night 1	Night 2	Night 3	Night 4	Night 5	Night 6	Night 7
Settle time:	Settle time:	Settle time:	Settle time:	Settle time:	Settle time:	Settle time:
Wakings:	Wakings:	Wakings:	Wakings:	Wakings:	Wakings:	Wakings:
Notes:	Notes:	Notes:	Notes:	Notes:	Notes:	Notes:

PARTNER AGREEMENT

Who leads Night 1–3:

Who leads Night 4–7:

If one of us wants to break the plan at 2 a.m.:

Our 'hold the line' signal:

MY WHY — what a well-rested family looks like:

Sleep Tracker →

7-Day Sleep Tracker

Track daily. Patterns emerge by Day 3–4. Trust the process.

Baby: _____ Week of: _____

Day	Wake Time	Nap 1	Nap 2	Nap 3	Bedtime	Wakings	Total Sleep	Mood
Mon						count: 0123		goodokhard
Tue						count: 0123		goodokhard
Wed						count: 0123		goodokhard
Thu						count: 0123		goodokhard
Fri						count: 0123		goodokhard
Sat						count: 0123		goodokhard
Sun						count: 0123		goodokhard

PATTERNS & OBSERVATIONS

Best night:

Hardest night:

Trend I'm seeing:

What I'm changing next week:

Personalized Bedtime Builder

Build your exact routine. Same order every night — this IS the signal.
Target bedtime: Awake window length: mins → Start wind-down at:

MY BEDTIME SEQUENCE

(Fill in each step. Check it off each night.)

1	Transition signal e.g. 'Lights dim, I say goodnight to the toys'	MTWTFSS
2	Stop all stimulating activity Screens off, active play ended	MTWTFSS
3	Bath / warm wipe-down Duration:	MTWTFSS
4	Lotion massage Optional but signals body-readiness for sleep	MTWTFSS
5	Pyjamas + sleep sack Tog rating for tonight's temp:	MTWTFSS
6	Feed — NOT to sleep Feed in dim room; keep baby awake	MTWTFSS
7	Books or lullaby How many / which song:	MTWTFSS
8	Goodnight phrase Your exact phrase (say this every time):	MTWTFSS
9	White noise on Volume & type:	MTWTFSS
10	Into crib — drowsy but awake The most important step	MTWTFSS
11	Exit room calmly Same, every night	MTWTFSS

Total routine duration: 20–30 minutes. Shorter = not enough wind-down. Longer = risk of falling asleep IN the routine.

Safe Sleep →

Safe Sleep Checklist

AAP-aligned. Run through this every single night until it's muscle memory.

■ If you have any concern about your baby's breathing, weight gain, or comfort, contact your paediatrician BEFORE applying any method.

THE SLEEP SURFACE

Firm, flat mattress — no incline, pillow-top, or wedge

Fitted sheet only — no loose blankets, bumpers, or pillows

No stuffed animals, positioners, or sleep aids inside the crib

Sleep sack used in place of a blanket (correct tog for room temp)

Baby placed on their BACK for every sleep, every time

Crib, bassinet, or play yard only — not swing, car seat, or bouncer

THE ROOM

Room temperature 68–72°F / 20–22°C confirmed

Baby's chest warm but NOT sweaty

True blackout — cannot see hand in front of face

White noise running at low, continuous level (not inside crib)

Monitor screen and LED indicators covered with electrical tape

No nightlight, or red-spectrum light only

ROOM-SHARING SETUP (if applicable)

Visual partition between your sleeping area and baby's

Minimal light used during night feeds

Separate sleep surface — not your bed

AAP recommends room-sharing for first 6–12 months

CALL YOUR PAEDIATRICIAN IF:

Fever during sleep training • Breathing seems irregular • Weight gain concerns • Any doubt about physical comfort

Your Sleep Promise

A commitment to your baby — and to yourself.

For the next seven days, I will keep bedtime simple and in the same order every night.

I will watch awake windows and act on them — before overtiredness sets in.

I will decide how I will respond to night wakings before the night begins.

I will wait before I go in, and give my baby the chance to resettle.

I will not judge the whole plan on the basis of one difficult night.

I will stay consistent — especially on the nights when it is hardest.

I will remember that I am not just surviving the night.

I am teaching my baby a skill they will use for the rest of their life.

Signed:

Date:

For:

"Sleep is coming. For both of you."

— Six & Thriving

← Back to Welcome